

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method and system of testing of an application framework and associated application framework components with respect to framework semantics.

6